

Transportation Summit A Local Government Perspective

April 8, 2009

Presented by:

Teresa Jacobs, The Florida Institute of Government at UCF

Conversation Overview

- Reality Check
- Recessions
 - Time to Panic or
 - Time to Plan
- Transportation: the Driving Force
- Developing a Wish List or a Real Plan
- Intergovernmental Agreements: a necessary but often elusive concept

Conversation Overview

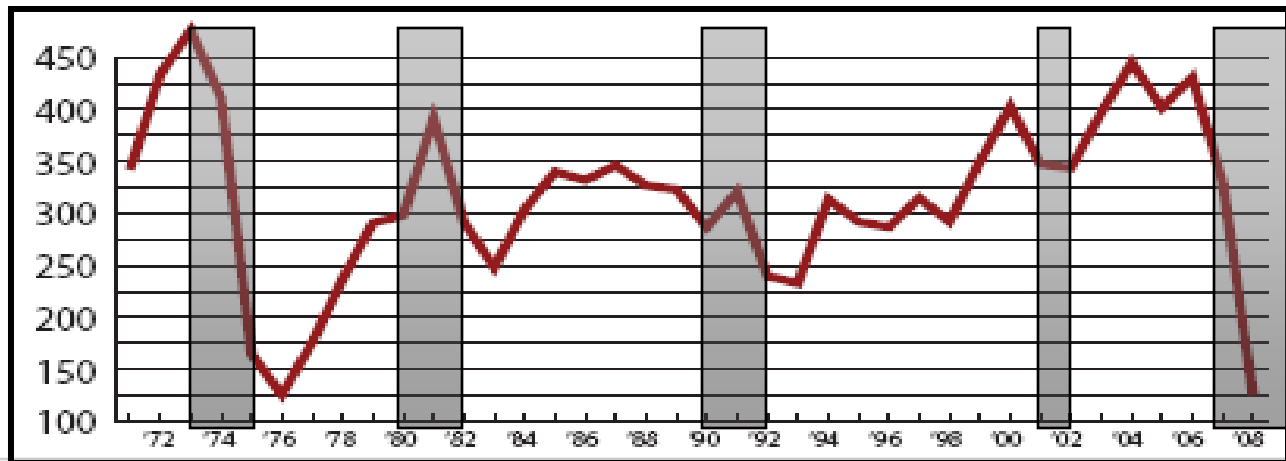

- Reality Check
- Recessions
 - Time to Panic or
 - Time to Plan
- Transportation: the Driving Force
- Developing a Wish List or a Real Plan
- Intergovernmental Agreements: a necessary but often elusive concept

FL's Population Growth v. Recessions

Florida Population: Annual Net Increase

Source: Bureau of Economic and Business Research; Florida Statistical Abstract.

Recessions

Time to Panic? or
Time to Plan?

Transportation: the Driving Force

Today's decisions will impact:

- Type, amt. & location of development
- Quality of life & cost of living
- Mobility choices
- Economic Vitality
- Health, safety and public welfare

Now and Well Into the Future!

Developing a Wish List or a Real Plan

“If you’re goal is to ensure your cities and counties are not merely affordable places to live, but desirable places to live, you’ll need to create more than a transportation wish list – you need to create a financially feasible program.”

Intergovernmental Agreements: a necessary but often elusive concept

Obstacles to cooperation:

- Lack of Understanding
- Lack of Trust
- Competition

Closing Thoughts...

You are planning the last transportation corridors for your communities.

Its an awesome responsibility!

Thank You!